Drinks to be served will also be determined by the host. This is an adult only event for PHWC members plus one (spouse, significant other, family, or friend), with single sign ups also welcome!

There is no cost for this event.

Fall 2025 Mix and Mingle Guest and Host Reviews:

5.0 out of 5 stars - 6 testimonials!

- We had a great time. I really think that all those who attended are very appreciative of the hosts and love to share their creativity as well. Good evening. And our guests were great cleanup crew. I really appreciated that!
- Hello! We too enjoyed our evening and getting to know several new people. I was a bit nervous about having people over that I had not met but everyone was so friendly and outgoing that it made things relaxing and enjoyable! Our combined efforts also made for a very yummy dinner :)
- We enjoyed hosting Mix and Mingle. Everyone was so excited to get together for a wonderful meal. And everyone did such a nice job of contributing.
- The process was smooth and easy. Nothing more for you to do. The key will be asking for feedback as to why people are not participating. And it doesn't only have to be couples. We had 2 singles as 1 spouse was traveling and another had health issues. So, letting people know that might help too, although you probably already message this.
- We had a great time as well and I believe those who attended had a great time. Good to meet new people, everyone contributed to a smooth process and a delicious meal, and great conversations. We also had a single person as her husband was ill and she still attended and had a great time.
- Dear M&M: Our dinner event was filled with delicious food, wonderful wine, fabulous friendships, and lots of laughs!!! Thank you for organizing a memorable evening for so many of our PHWC members & guests! You guys rock! Thank you, thank you, thank you!
- The Mix & Mingle dinner was such a delight! We lingered well past 11:00pm, simply because the company was too good to leave. I was especially grateful for everyone's help with cleanup—it made the end of the evening so much easier.
- I really love the random guest selection—it's such a thoughtful way to connect neighbors who might not otherwise cross paths. Not only did we enjoy a lovely dinner, but we also had the chance to meet new friends. I can already see the beginnings of friendships that sparked on Wednesday—connections that feel like they'll last well beyond the evening. That's the magic of these gatherings: they bring neighbors together in meaningful, lasting ways.
